A WORTHY CANDIDATE.

The loyal voters of the Commonwealth ask no higher tribute to the worth and character of Judge Williams than the following neat compliment paid him by the only daily Democratic paper of Western Pennsylvania the day following his nomination. It said:

"The nomination of the Hon. Henry W. Williams as a candidate for Judge of the Supreme Court is a good one. He was the best man named before the Republican Convention, and possesses legal and moral qualifications for the responsible position to which he has been nominated. Both parties have now presented their candidates. An important duty has been faithfully discharged by the respective conventions. The campaign may now be conducted without personal aspersions, and decided upon the principles of the two great parties. This is as it should be. It is an auspicious sign of the times, and if the county conventions are equally fortunate in the selection of legislative candidates, there will be a stop put to the deplorable corruption at the seat of government under a new reign of honest men and conscientious legislators.—Pittsburgh Post, June 28th, 1867.

The Post, in referring to the above, on the 29th of August, was pleased to say

"We have nothing to take back or modify. Of Judge Williams' private or legal reputation we have nothing but words of praise, and however it may suit some pugnacious and heady politicians, we cannot bring ourselves to view personal assaults as either wise or politic."

SOUTHERN OPINION.

The Augusta (Ga.) Sentinel, of the 15th instant, contains a letter to General A. R. WRIGHT, written by Mr. H. R. CASEY, from which we take a specimen:

"The question is, Are not the Radicals usurpers of the Government? and are they not wielding its vast machinery in entire disrespect of the Constitution and of all laws, and running it simply as a party machine? Another question then follows, Would war upon that party mean war upon the Government? I answer no. Opposition to the illegal, unjust and ruinous enactments of a mad, fanatical junto is not disloyalty to the Government."

A good deal was written and published, at the South, in substantially this same vein before the population was induced to take up arms. The germinal idea is that the Democratic party are the people, and the Democratic platform, last adopted, the Constitution; that to dissent from that Platform is to contemn the Constitution, and to oppose that party to be guilty of the deepest incivism. The arrogance with which this assumption was maintained was without a parallel, and led the Democrats on till they were ready to make war upon the government rather than yield up the administration of its affairs.

The extract above is not the only indication that has fallen under our observation of a determination among Democrats, South and North, to go back to this intolerable and malignant egotism. All Governments are administered by parties, and are so far "party machines." The Democratic party administered the Government of the United States for an unbroken period of thirty years, and made it as complete a "party machine" as ever existed. The whole thing was managed by Democrats in accordance with Democratic ideas. If such a condition of affairs justifies a resort to arms the Republicans, after 1860, had ample cause for plunging the country into war. They did not hold to this doctrine then. They will not tolerate it now. If any one of the revolted States shall show a disposition to assert this doctrine, and to practice accordingly, it will be retained under military government until it shall reach a juster conception of the situation.

THE DEMOCRATS are driven to desperation. They played their cards too early in the campaign and hold not a single trump. In their weakness they cry for help and are rushing into the arms of President Johnson for support. Only a few weeks ago several of the county conventions of the opposition refused to endorse Mr. Johnson, and ignored him with as much independence as could be shown by the Radicals. They were too fast. To remedy their error a horde of politicians whose blood chills in prospect of another defeat, are now whining on the stool of repentance at the feet of the President, imploring him to forgive them their trespasses, and to save Pennsylvania from the Radicals by his patronage. Make a note of it Republicans. The enemy is demoralized, and by closing up your ranks and bearing down on him in October, as a solid mass, political disaster of the most positive character awaits him.

A GOOD MANY of the Southern people, among them persons of decided eminence, take issue with the President as to the tendency of Gen. Sickles's course. They are constrained to applaud what was done, and to deplore the action of the President. This is not the only particular in which thoughtful Southern men will soon find occasion to confess that the Republican plan is the best one for them and the whole country.

LITTLE PHIL SHERIDAN is a worker. No man in the army ever discharged his duties more faithfully, or worked more zealously. He was always at his post and toiled incessantly, and through downright drudging accomplished many of his most brilliant exploits. During the past twenty years he was not absent from duty more than once, and then only for twenty days.

THE Union League, of Philadelphia, by its intelligence, liberality and energy has made itself a power for good in this State. At a meeting of its members, held on Wednesday, it was Resolved, That we do most especially and earnestly recommend the election of Henry W. Williams, of Pittsburgh, to the bench of the Supreme Court, as a learned and accomplished jurist, and a truly upright and loyal citizen.

THE rebels in Maryland are arming and drilling for a new rebellion under the traitor, Johnson. At the October election remember that every vote cast against the Union ticket will be an additional incentive to Andrew Johnson to carry out his purpose of over-throwing the will of the people by force of arms.

THE Republicans of the district composed of Carbon and Monroe counties have nominated Major Wm. K. Haviland for Representative.

CALVIN P. MILLIKEN is the Republican candidate for Assembly in Wayne and Pike counties.

TWO OR THREE Republican journals of this State have recently recommended the nomination of Mr. Curtin for Vice President. As many have expressed a preference for Mr. Grow. Either will do; but make a Supreme Judge first.

ON the 7th of October an Excursion party, to consist of one hundred and fifty editors, will start from Chicago for Denver, expecting to be gone three weeks on the round trip.

Extension of the Panama Railroad Franchise—Excitement Concerning War Movements of Spain Subsided, &c., &c.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

SAN FRANCISCO, September 18.—The Bulletin's correspondence from Panama gives the following late intelligence:

The extension of the Panama Railroad franchise is confirmed. The bill passed the National Congress, at Bogota, August 15th, and was signed by the Executive the following day. The general terms have already been announced. Twenty-five dollars annual rental goes to the State of Panama, in consideration of the ceding of the Island of Manzanillo, and whatever lands may be requisite for improvements in connection with the works. The railroad will now be extended by a new wharf to the island, obviating the necessity for lighters and tenders.

Valparaiso dates to August 18th furnish no new developments concerning the war with Spain. Nothing was heard of the Spanish fleet, and the excitement at Valparaiso had subsided, but commercial interests were unsettled.

The Wateree left Valparaiso for Callao, on the 12th of July, with General Hovey on board.

A slight shock of an earthquake was felt at Valparaiso on the 9th.

War preparations were going on in Peru with energy.

President Prado was much praised by the people and the press.

Gov. Orr Endorses the Action of Gen. Sickles—Gen. Canby Petitioned to Continue in Force Order No. 10.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

NEW YORK, Sept. 21.—Governor Orr, of South Carolina, has written a letter to Gen. Sickles, since the latter was relieved, in which he expresses deep regret at the President's course, and unqualifiedly endorses all the measures of Gen. Sickles' administration, and especially order No. 10, which he says has been the only means by which the people of South Carolina have been able to raise a crop this season.

The wealthier classes of North Carolina have petitioned General Canby to continue in force order No. 10, in order to save them from beggary.

The World's special says: The Government has received information that General Canby is not interfering in any way with the processes issued from the Federal Courts in North Carolina, although he has not suspended by any special order that feature of Gen. Sickles' Order No. 10, which prohibited the enforcement of judgment for debt. The United States Marshal is serving the writs issued by the United States District Court, and selling property under them, but the prices are so low in the present condition of North Carolina, that in one case a farm which cost $40,000 in gold before the war, brought at the Marshal's sale but five thousand dollars. The judgment in this case was bought by a Northern creditor.

The first nominations by Republicans, for the State Convention, were made to-day in Hanover county, being Wm. James, late Revenue Collector, and John B. Crenshaw, a Quaker minister. The city politicians are holding meetings to make nominations. All the names so far mentioned are of persons who have become residents since the war.

Doings of the Indian Council—Significant Speech of General Sherman—"Pawnee Killer" Leaves the Council in Disgust, &c.

[By Telegraph to the Pittsburgh Gazette.]

ST. LOUIS, September 21.—Omaha dispatches say: Telegrams from the Indian Council announce the declaration of peace with the Brule and Ogalala bands of Sioux. Senator Henderson and General Sherman made speeches. The latter said: "If you don't leave the roads alone I will kill you, and I will give you neither powder nor ball till you make peace." "Pawnee Killer," Chief of the Cheyennes, left the council in disgust. The council will meet again at North Platte on the 1st of November. Ammunition will be given to peaceful tribes.

The Montana Post says: The Seventh Regiment of Volunteers has returned to Camp Meagher, having failed to overtake the Yellowstone Indians. The start again on the 9th on an expedition against the Crows, on Sweetwater. There is no doubt of the hostility of the Crows, as they are continually committing depredations.

Great fears are entertained for the safety of a party of emigrants on the road from Fort Smith to Virginia City, as they have not been heard from for a long time.

The Indians have notified the contractors on the Kansas Pacific Railroad that that road shall not be built beyond Fort Hays, that they mean war to the knife. Great excitement prevails along the route, and the laborers are leaving. Col. Shoemaker is at the end of the track rallying the men.

ANOTHER DISPATCH.

The Republican's special from Omaha has the following: The Council at North Platte resulted in nothing conclusive. The Indians frankly stated the cause of the trouble. General Sherman, on behalf of the Commission, delivered an answer, which was plain, sharp and explicit. If the Indians should hold Smoky Hill, the road must be built. They must not interfere with the government. He supposed the road was agreed upon by the Cheyennes four years ago. The military posts and mail stations built two years ago were not then considered a cause for war. If the Indians are damaged they will receive compensation. He supposed, also, they had agreed on the Powder river road in the Laramie treaty last spring. While the Indians continue to wage war the road will not be given up; but if the Indians' right is found good it will be given up, or compensation therefor, if they keep peace. Powder and lead would not be given them until a definite treaty was made. A railroad train had been attacked, men were killed who had no guns, but were bringing goods, some of which were to feed the Indians. A proposition was then submitted for the Indians to accept homes on new reservations, and they were given until the first of November to answer at the Council to be held at North Platte. Meantime they could hunt on the Republican. The General represented that we were building costly roads, and they could not be stopped, no more than the sun and moon in the East. They hardly think what they call ever here is; but if they make up their minds, it will come to the plains thick, where there are the largest herds of buffalos, and kill you all. He told the Indians that if they wanted to go east and see for themselves they would be deadheaded through. The chiefs responded that they only asked ammunition, which the Commission finally concluded to give.

The Commissioners returned, to meet at Fort Harker. Gen. Sherman will come to St. Louis via. Chicago.

Rev. Herrick Johnson's Farewell

Yesterday forenoon an audience of unusual numbers and character assembled in the Third Presbyterian Church of this city, to listen to the farewell discourse of the Rev Mr. Johnson, who has held the pastorate for the last five years, and now retires because the health of his wife requires a removal to a different climate.

The Divine blessing was invoked by this pastor.

This was followed by the reading of the 91st Psalm, as the first lesson.

The 328th hymn was then sung:

"Lord, we come before Thee now;
At Thy feet we humbly bow;
Oh! do not our suit disdain;
Shall we seek Thee, Lord, in vain."

The 17th chapter of the Gospel according to St. John was then read as the second lesson.

Prayer was then offered by the Rev. Mr. Sparks, who was long identified with the Church.

The 14th hymn was then sung:

"With tearful eyes I look around;
Life seems a dark and stormy sea;
Yet 'midst the gloom I hear a sound,
A heavenly whisper, come to me."

The text was taken from Acts of the Apostles, 20th chapter, 18, 20, 27 and 32 verses:

"And when they were come to him, he said unto them, Ye know, from the first day I came into Asia, after what manner I have been with you at all seasons.

"And now, behold, I go bound in the spirit unto Jerusalem, not knowing the things that shall befall me there.

"For I have not shunned to declare unto you all the counsel of God.

"And now, brethren, I commend you to God, and to the word of his grace, which is able to build you up, and to give you an inheritance among all them which are sanctified."

In selecting these words from the farewell of the great Apostle to the Church of Ephesus, it was not his intention to institute a comparison between that illustrious servant of God and himself. But however he might fall below the Apostle in intellectual gifts, impassioned eloquence, and in ardent zeal, he could still say he had not shunned to declare the whole counsel of God.

Almost his first official duty with this people called him to the house of mourning. In their griefs he had helped them to bear their sorrows. During his term of service there had been 63 deaths. Of these 28 were adults, including Elder Livingston. Twenty were babes, snatched from their mothers' arms. The residue, children and youth.

He had been present at their nuptials and other occasions of joy. Sunshine as well as shadows had been the inheritance of this people. He had shared in their social recreations, endeavoring to prove by example that religion was not gloomy and morose.

In consequence of the destruction of the church edifice three years of his pastorate the congregation had worshipped in public halls. Under the discouragement resulting from this necessity he had steadily resisted invitations to other and attractive fields of labor.

On all the great questions of the day, aside from those relating to personal religion, his ministrations had been unequivocal and decided. During the war there was no hinge or loop to hang a doubt on as to the course christian duty required. He set forth that the Bible was the great fountain of Liberty, Equality and Fraternity, without respect to condition, caste or color. In like manner he had steadily maintained that total abstinence from all intoxicating drinks was not only essential to the safety of each one, but was dictated by that genuine christian expediency which forbids us doing anything whereby a weaker one may be made to fall. In respect, moreover, to christian benevolence, or the right use of riches, he had been constant in exhortations to liberality. Above and beyond all this it had been his constant aim to give his people all God's counsel concerning salvation and eternal life.

As a people you have been content to hear me speak God's truth. Whenever you have differed from me it has been in kindness and charity. In this regard, as in all others, you have left me nothing to wish in the way of considerate regard. Even as to salary, you have, in the whole, given me $6,000 more than you stipulated. More precious than this, you have given me remembrance at your altars, and home in your hearts.

As to the results of this pastorate figures cannot set them forth. God has blessed us, and I thank him from the fullness of my heart. The accessions to membership have been: the first year 31, second year 42, third year 15, fourth year 35, and fifth year 114, making a total of 249. Of these 95 were by letter and 145 by profession of faith. The average is 45 for each year. The dismissals during the five years were 67 by letter and 26 by death, making an aggregate of 93, showing a net gain of 147 in the membership.

In contributions to Christian benevolence, for objects outside this particular church, the increase has been most encouraging. The first year the sum of $4,971 was raised; the second, $7,980; the third, $12,600; the fourth, $11,615; the fifth, $16,810; making a total of $53,976.

For the support of the particular church, the increase has been still more marked. During the five years the sum of $233,601 has been raised; commencing with $10,786 the first year, and ending with over $53,000 the past year.

This shows the sum of $287,311 contributed for church and benevolent purposes during the past five years, independently of private benefactions.

I now commend you to God, and the word of his grace. Five years of walking together with Jesus has bound us together with ties not easily to be dissolved. The hardest part of the parting is the fact that five years of my ministry have left some unconverted. I commend you to Jesus. May my Savior forgive me if I have so preached as not to commend him to you. My people! we may never all meet together on earth; but may we all meet in heaven with thrilling notes of transport and glory, and not part for ever and ever.

The concluding prayer was offered by the pastor, in which, most touchingly, he commended them all to the protection and blessing of God.

The 299th hymn was sung:

"Blest be the tie that binds
Our hearts in Christian love;
The fellowship of kindred minds
Is like to that above."

The benediction was then pronounced.

EVENING SERMON.

In the evening the reverend gentleman preached a farewell sermon to the young men of his congregation. The attendance was exceedingly large. We quote from our report as follows:

ISA. xiii:12. I will make a man more precious than fine gold; even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir.

These words occur in a prediction of the woe that was to come upon Babylon for its iniquitous and heaven-defying pride. The haughtiness and arrogance of the Babylonian empire were to be brought to nought. The mighty, colossal kingdom, that lifted itself up against the Almighty, was to be humbled in the dust. Among other effects that would follow the coming of the day of the Lord with wrath and fierce anger, would be the loss of men for Babylon's defence. God would so cut off and destroy the men of the city that a single man to defend it would be more rare and valuable than fine gold. This is the signification of the text, "I will make a man more precious than fine gold; even a man than the golden wedge of Ophir." It refers to the loss that God determined to bring upon Babylon in the destruction of its arms-bearing citizens, the bone and sinew of a nation's strength.

But there is another sense in which the words may be used. There may be numerically many men, yet really no true man; or a true man may be so rare as to be counted more precious than fine gold. There may be physical forms of men, yet few grand, royal souls. And is not society at such a pass to-day? We do not want for men, if we simply count them. But suppose we weigh them—suppose we put estimate on their worth of character—what then? Men of the strictest integrity, men of rigidest probity and uprightness, men who scorn to make worse appear better reason, unbreakable, untemptable, unswervable; men whose love of rectitude and whose fear of God and whose Christ-like temper and Christ-like lives make it manifest that they walk with God daily; such men do not go in multitudes. They are rare. They are so rare that their price is above rubies. They are worth more than the golden wedges of Ophir. They are of greater value than the "man" whom Diogenes searched the streets of Athens for, but failed in finding.

Such men are not born. They are not the product of propitious circumstances. They do not come into the world to take the lead of affairs, by chance. They are made. God makes them. Or rather, under God, they make themselves. They are built up in worth of character by that divinest of all formative forces, the Divine Spirit. And as this formative force is denied to none, every man may be such a man, if he will. God will make him more precious than fine gold, by so much as He is allowed to work in him, and by so much as that work is inwrought and outwrought by the man's own self in his life.

If it were wealth that makes a man, then some might despair. To be clad in purple and fine linen, to fare sumptuously every day, to command luxuries, to be rich, is not given to the majority. "The poor ye have always with you," said he who became poor that men might be rich with the riches of God. Thank God, we can take contented lot with poverty, and still have true manhood.

Again, it is not place and power that make the man. These are but incidents and accidents. Worth may win them, but knavery and fortuitous circumstance more often do. A thing that may be commanded by gold, by chicanery, by fraud—a thing that is bought and sold in the market—may clothe with outward respectability and give semblance of manhood; but the man that God makes, more precious than rubies, that will bear the stress of opportunity and the pressure of temptation and stand proved in truth and honesty that tries "to speak with God behind him, so as to be only the arrow in the bow which the Almighty draws," that tries to live with eternity before him and in full view of its grand and solemn realities; he needs neither place nor power. He is a man without them, beyond all price. And such manhood is attainable by us all. Such character-building has but one architect, but he is within call of every builder. Ever since Jesus stood in the judgment hall and Pilate said unto the people, "Behold the man," it has been possible for all men to take that model and to be like unto it.

It is such men that we want. Business needs them. Society needs them. The Church needs them. The world needs them. It is especially in cities like this, in swarming populations, where men touch and jostle each other, where great interests center and so much is at stake, that the pressure of this need is most seriously felt.

How is this need to be met? Here in this city, where are such men to come from? Out of what material is such manhood to be made! From what ranks are to be called those who shall be men indeed! From the ranks of the young, inevitably. There is no other answer to these questions.

The old and the middle-aged are already built. Such as they are, they must largely continue to be. They are grown and growing rigid as to proportion, and reach their degree of manfulness. They have worn grooves and ruts, and must move in them. Even the regenerating grace of God, potent with the might of Omnipotence, cannot do for an impenitent old man what it can do for an impenitent youth. They are passing away, too, the aged, the fixed and established, the already built up. God and the Church must therefore look to the young for the manhood that is more precious than fine gold, or they cannot have it. Hence, my appeal this evening, young men, is to you. I bring the need of the Church and of society before you—a need that can be met only by you, and I press you with the responsibility of meeting it. I charge you to be God-made men and women. So yield yourselves to the formative power of His Spirit, and so submit yourselves to the holy dictation of his unerring wisdom, as to be possessed with true nobility and worth of manhood.

I charge you thus, first, because of your natural capabilities and powers. They are pliable and disciplinable now, ready to take mould and shape, and to be put to most effective use. You will never be better conditioned to build up character than you are to-day. Now is the time, if ever, to be made men of. You are not grown stiff. You have not been so long in a rut as to make it impossible to get out of it. You are in the formative period, being daily fashioned into that which shall constitute your worth, be it more or less, in the time to come. Physically, as compared with the Fathers, you are lithe of frame, firm of muscle, strong in endurance. Emotionally, you are ready to swell and glow with enthusiasm, to kindle and burn with high excitement. Mentally, you are fresh for toil; not yet, indeed, having the breadth and sweep and grasp of the thoroughly ripened intellects; nor the matured judgment and discrimination either; but having great possibility of growth and unknown measure of latent and to-be-developed power—while you are undramped by settled and objectionable habits of thought. Morally and spiritually, you are being made. Under God you are your own artificers. What you do now, how you make resolve, and enlist for work and put yourselves into the field as laborers for humanity's welfare. O this is made fearfully important in view of the endowments of your youth. For we know how it is. The elastic, buoyant natures, strongly emotional, capable of being roused to a glowing enthusiasm, capable of being stirred and thrilled by an idea, or a truth, or a righteous cause, have kept the world from stagnation and led the van of God's hosts in every great conflict. And such natures are characteristic of young men. Once aroused and united in behalf of any precious and imperiled interest, then look out—the world moves. Affairs are no longer stagnant.

No great work is ever pushed to successful completion without the pith and sinew and manfulness of such natures. Look at our late war. The strength and flower of the nation were on the battle field between the ages of eighteen and thirty-five. These were the ones first called to conflict the strong ones, with physical frames capable of enduring hardships, and youthful ardor to energize them and buoy them up; whose brawny muscle and flexile sinew driven by the glowing enthusiasm of their loyal hearts, flaunted the old flag all over with victory. O, if you would be marshaled thus under Christ's banner, and would move with like unanimity and fidelity against his foes, what trophies might be won here for Jesus! and why not?

Young men, the Church and Christ need you just as much as the country and liberty did. Your agency is just as essential in the Church warfare as it was in the civil. If the government laid obligations upon you, so does God. If the youth of the land bore the brunt of the conflict with treason, they ought no less to bear the brunt of the strife with Satan and Sin. The great proportion of Church work must be done by you, as well as the great proportion of all other work. Special obligations are laid at your door, because of your natural capabilities and powers.

I charge you with responsibility, secondly, because of your opening opportunities. To be young is to hold in one's hand great possibilities, and that is power. You will hear men regretting this and that as having been done or left undone in their past—wishing their youth back again that they might seize the opportunity they let slip forever. It is a confession of weakness. They cannot command what they once could. They have lost power over something. They are committed to a habit that cripples their usefulness and dwarfs their manhood. They are moulded past possibility of change, and they see flaws in the work that they might remedy if they could have back their wasted and lost opportunities. Yours are well nigh all before you. You can form golden characters. You can do golden work. You can win golden crowns. You can build up your characters and make such men of yourselves, as to be in the sight of God and man, more precious than rubies.

The manhood of the Fathers is made. Yours' is to be made. The opportunities of the Fathers' are gone. Yours' crowd and throng about your unfolding lives. There are openings for usefulness, which you need but enter to put it beyond doubt that the world shall be better for your having lived in it. There are times and junctures which you need but seize to be sure of honoring God and helping your fellows. There is work to be done here in this city which you need but do to lay up for yourselves great treasure in heaven. You may make your manhood what you will. Possibilities may become realities at your option. Special obligations are laid at your door because of your opening opportunities.

But I charge you, with responsibility, thirdly, because of your sympathy and association and fellowship of feeling with each other. You have the thoughts and desires and purposes of young men and women. You are like to them. You are one with them. You can understand their prejudices and appreciate their views and adapt yourselves to their tastes. You are on a sympathetic level. You are young, and you know how youth feels and what youth wants, and the ways in which youth may be best and most successfully influenced.

The old men have passed beyond this. They have lost the sparkle and vivacity and freshness of young manhood. They are strong. So is a steam-engine. But it needs steam to drive it. Young men have the steam. The fathers sometimes forget how they felt when they were boys. They can give sound advice. They can urge wise counsel. They can enrich society and the church with the precious ore of their experience. They can be of inestimable value—and they are. Woe to the church, or the community or the Nation that does not pay deference and honor to old age. For the hoary head is a crown of glory when found in the way of righteousness.

God has made you to give and receive the heaviest blows in the great battle of the right and the wrong. The man that sneers at young men, that belittles them and their influence, that thinks he can do without them, that judges youth almost a crime, and fancies wisdom will die with the fathers, is simply mad. They are the strong ones, who must take up the heaviest crosses, bear the most grievous burdens, go into the very hottest of the fight.

And now, how shall this responsibility be met? The need of society and of the church is imperative and imminent for men. God made men. Who shall be more precious than fine gold; yea, than the golden wedge of Ophir. Such men are made of God, as, under God, they make themselves. They must come mainly from the ranks of the young. You can be such men, all of you here before me to-night. And special obligations are laid upon you, because of your natural capabilities and powers, now fresh and vigorous with young life; because of your opening opportunities the world is all before you; and because of your association and fellowship of feeling with each other you are specially fitted to reach and save those of your own age and your own youthful sympathies.

I call upon you to-night, honestly to look these obligations in the face. I press you with your great responsibility, and bid you meet it in the fear of God. While God works with you and in you, do you work with and for God and make yourselves men.

1. Be wise in your companionship. The acquaintance, the comrade, the boon associate, the bosom friend—these are elements of tremendous power in your life. I say it, fearless of sustainable contradiction, there is nothing so decisive in moulding the character and determining the destiny of a young man for this world and the next, as the company he keeps. You do not need—you at least who have been blessed with good homes and faithful parents—you do not need to be warned against the openly and grossly vicious, who flaunt their infamy on the public streets and glory in their shame. But there are bad men in every community who assume to be patterns of respectability. Before the world, at least, they are never offensively immoral. They may be of fair talents, and of business standing, and of polished manners. But they applaud to the echo a quip or a jest at something sacred. They laugh at the young innocent who talks of virtue. They hold that no man does a good thing except for profit. Their favorite maxim is, Every man has his price. And they smile incredulously, if they do not hiss, at the purity of women.

Now, I care not who the young man is who seeks and permits himself to remain in such society as that. He has not the power to resist its influence. He will unconsciously imbibe the poison, and come at last to doubt whether the foundations of all virtue are not laid in sand.

The acquaintance or companion, therefore, who directly or indirectly seeks to undermine human confidence, who is ever "mousing for vermin" and flinging his unscrupulous suspicions and vile innuendoes at the virtuous, is to be studiously avoided. His breath is pollution. There is rottenness in him. He who can insult the mother who bore him by ever tainting the air with the breath of suspicion concerning woman, is one of Hell's ambassadors, sent into this world with full credentials.

But there are those of other bad habits, whose companionship is to be equally avoided. I do not mean those grossly profane and beastly—you will not be tempted to seek these. But those whose expletives are of the fashionable sort, who visit only saloons of the highest respectability, and whose use of the gambler's tools is never for anything more than amusement or a supper. Young men, you think you are safe in such company. You see these whom I have described occupying position in the world, passing among men and admitted to social privilege without the brand of condemnation, and you think you are safe in your choice of them as associates. I tell you you are not safe. Can you touch pitch and not be defiled by it? Go with me to the lower haunts. Visit the den of infamy, and then the alms house, the lunatic asylum, the prison. See the bloated beastly sot, the flushed libertine, the rotten carcass, the driveling idiot, the raving madman, and the taker of his brother's blood! Scores on scores of these whom the grave swallows every year, once thought they were safe in just whetting the edge of appetite in such company as I warn you of to-night. O how many clerks, and students and young men of business, have I known, even in my brief experience, who have been utterly and forever ruined from this very cause. By the laws of your being, young men, as well as by the appointment of God, destruction is inevitable if you fellowship with evil. A companion of fools shall be destroyed. Break off the unholy alliance! Turn your back upon such contracted friendships! the flowers may be there and soothing music, and glittering attractions, and gay, brilliant seductive associations, but ah, there is a way that seemeth right unto a man, but the end thereof are the ways of death.

But bad books are as bad as bad persons for companionship. They are the devil's most active recruiting agents. Voiceless yet often more weighty than any speech. Pernicious reading is often more dangerous than evil conversation, because reading can be perused unmolested. Books can be carried in the pocket, hidden in trunks, put away in dark and unfrequented places, to be fingered and read stealthily and with locked doors by night. Young man, you had better take the most venomous viper to your bosom, and let it nestle there close to your heart, than to choose for your companion one of these books that needs to be read under cover. The viper can only poison your body. The book will send the deadly virus through your soul.

I cannot stop here to tell you the books that should be your companions; but whether you profess religion or not, it is of lasting consequence that amid all the associates with whom you hold communion, your Bible should have an appointed and prominent and constant place. Sink its precious truth to your heart. Make your soul fast to the word of God. Chose it as a daily companion. If the soul is a reality, and God is a reality, and heaven and hell are realities, and you believe them to be so, I ask you what you are doing with your Bible shut! Go to it. Open it. Read it every day of your life. Aside from its divine authority it will do more to make a young man a man in the truest and most enlarged sense than any other book in the world.

It is the best book for the Mind, the affections, the conscience. It is the only book for the soul. It will link you fast to virtue if you make it your bosom friend. It may make you a friend of Jesus.

But bad thoughts are as bad as bad books or bad men for your companionship. What you think, young men, tells far vastly more upon your character and destiny than what you do. "As a man will be what his most cherished feelings are." Who then, I ask, are your companions in your thought-life. What guests are entertained in your secret hearts? If they are unclean, then I care not what your outward habits are, you are rottening every fibre of your moral being. You are turning the gold into dross, instead of the dross into gold. And you may be sure of this. If Satan can keep you where you are, outwardly under moral restraint, yet inwardly indulgent in venturesome dreams and tainted thoughts and corrupting fancies, he will ask no more. You are his as inevitably his as if the brand of Cain were on your brow. As inevitably his as if you were already doomed and damned!

O, that I could persuade you to be wise in your companionship. I speak as one of you, sharing your weakness and sympathies and ardent desires for pleasurable and joy-giving association. I have felt, and I feel with you the fascinating nature of dangerous companionship. But one has come to me whom I trust I love more than I do my life. God has given me a friend in Jesus, and when he is consciously present in my heart, that best and truest and divinest friend of sinners, it is a joy like unto no other my soul ever knew. I can commend him to you as I can no other. In your choice of associates, then, choose Jesus first.

We regret our limited space will not permit us to publish the remaining portion of the able sermon, but will conclude with the following exhortation:

One more word and I close. Bear with me a few moments longer. It is the last time I may ever address you.

It was under God that you did so great and good a work last winter. Use your machinery, therefore, multiply your agencies for good, call the roll of your young men, and organize, organize, organize for work. But remember, the wisest measures and the most intelligent schemes, and the best laid plans, will utterly fail of making your organization a success, unless all these agencies and plans are permeated and all these schemes surcharged, and all these measures babtized, and you yourselves filled and stirred and inspired with the Holy Ghost. Let me borrow an illustration for this point. Suppose we saw an army sitting down before a granite fortress, and they told us they intended to battle it down. We might ask them how? They point us to a cannon ball. Well, but there is no power in that. It is heavy, but not more than a hundred, or half a hundred weight. If all the men in the army were to throw it, and they the best disciplined and strongest army in the world, that would make no impression. They say no, but look at the cannon. Well, but there is no power in this. It is a machine, and nothing more. But look at the powder! Well, there is no power in that; a child may spill it; a sparrow may pick it up. Yet this powerless powder and this powerless ball are put into this powerless cannon. One spark of fire enters it, and then, in the twinkling of an eye, that powder is a flash of lightning, and that cannon ball is a thunderbolt, which smites as if it had been sent from heaven.

So is it with our machinery, members of the Young Men's Association, buoyant, ardent, energetic. While you thank God for the past and take courage for the future, remember, if you would have any plan of yours succeed, any effort attended any word made effectual, if you would have God's truth mighty, fortressed sinners driven from their refuges of lies, young men snatched from the clutch of Satan, and made to the church and the word, more precious than gold, pray for the baptism of fire.

A Blind Child Restored to Perfect Sight.

On saturday we were called upon in our sanctum by a smart and intelligent little girl who came to tell us, in her own innocent manner, how her sight had been restored by that distinguished surgeon and physician Dr. E. S. Aborn, No. 134 Smithfield street. Her name she gave us as Louisa Shuck, and she told us that she resided at Mt. Washington, opposite the city. She had some time ago been attacked with that dreadful and loathsome disease, small pox, which not only disfigured her face but totally destroyed the sight of her right eye and seriously impaired that of the left. No calamity can be imagined more terrible to the young than the destruction of the organ of sight—to have the windows of the soul closed and darkened just at an age when the world is shadowed by no dark clouds, but pleasing to the view with all its beauty, poetry and grandeur. Little Louisa's friends deeply sympathized with her, and to avert a life of bitterness and blank, called on Dr. Aborn and placed her under his treatment. The case was difficult, but the unequalled skill and perfection acquired by this surgeon among surgeons prompted him to promise a cure, and little Louisa told us of the fulfillment of that promise. She could see, and seemed to delight in closing her left eye to show us how well she could see with her right one. She could tell colors, tell letters, tell objects, and in short, her sight was fully restored, and she was so glad to talk about it. But this is only one of the pleasing episodes which daily gratify Dr. Aborn. He has accomplished so many cures that his practice has become widely extended, and he now enjoys a national reputation based on pure merit alone. Little Louisa's "certificate," told by her own prattling lips, is worth a score of affidavits, and the knowledge of having restored her to complete sight, to have redeemed her from darkness, must prove a source of greater satisfaction to Dr. Aborn than one outside the profession can imagine.

Oakland Park.

The horse exhibition at this place continues. To-day there will be a match between "Gipsy" and "Pilot" for a premium of four hundred dollars; also a running race, single dash of one mile, between "Sleepy John," "Lady Elgin," "Jennie Van" and "Alice," for a premium of one hundred dollars, twenty-five dollars on each quarter.

To-morrow there will be a grand pacing race, for a premium of five hundred dollars, for which the noted horses "Grey Eagle," "Rover," "Yankee Sam," and "Cold Water Billy" will compete.

We understand a proposition has been made to the State Agricultural Society, which, if accepted, will ensure a trial of speed by the celebrated horses now at Oakland Park for the benefit of visitors at the Fair.

Railroad Accident.

A serious accident occurred near Economy Station, on the Pittsburgh, Fort Wayne and Chicago Railway, on Saturday, resulting in the death of R. K. Burch, a resident of Greenville, Mercer county, Pa. Mr. B. was walking on the track, and the mail train, which leaves this city at six o'clock A. M., struck him and knocked him off. The train was stopped and the injured man put on board and taken to Rochester. His injuries, although severe, were not considered serious. He, however, continued to grow worse, and finally expired about noon. An inquest will be held upon the body to-day. The deceased leaves a wife and one child.

Last Evening the usually quiet neighborhood of the Diamond was seriously disturbed by a street altercation between an infuriated wife and her better natured husband. The latter, it appears, had taken a drive on his own account, leaving his wife at home to nurse her anger from a quarrel of long standing. She laid in wait for him, and on his return hurled a heavy wagon cushion at his head, which knocked him to the pavement. She otherwise abused him, and used language shocking to an extreme. No arrests.

A disgraceful street fight, between a doctor and a collector, occurred on Smithfield street, on Saturday afternoon. The collector was so indefatigable in his "duns" as to rouse the ire of the pill-box disciple, and hence the quarrel. Both were badly used up before they were parted.

The Advocate Reporter stated, on Saturday afternoon, that Mr. Ford, of the Ninth ward, had been instrumental in creating disturbance at a Labor Reform meeting in his neighborhood, Friday night. The charge is simply false. Mr. F. was thirty miles out of the city that night.

Mass Meeting.—The Workingmen's party held a mass meeting at the corner of Fifth and Smithfield streets, on Saturday night. The attendance was quite large and at times considerable enthusiasm was manifested. The meeting was addressed by several able speakers.

Sixth Ward Republican Meeting.—Our Sixth ward Republican friends should not fail to attend the meeting called for this evening at the School House to perfect Ward Committees, and other important business. Let there be a grand turnout.

Navigation.—Navigation on the Monongahela river has been resumed. The boats made through trips on Saturday, and will leave hereafter morning and evening as formerly, unless prevented by low water, for all points on the line.

Natrona.—A large and enthusiastic mass meeting of the Republicans of Natrona was held on Friday night. Hon. P. C. Shannon and A. M. Brown, Esq., delivered the speeches of the occasion.

The Second ward Vigilance Committee will meet to-night at Mr. Thomas Steel's office, No. 64 Smithfield street. Full attendance is requested.

Testimonial from Paris.

We, the undersigned, take pleasure in testifying that we regard the Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs as instruments in which all desirable improvements are to be found. The Automatic Swell especially appears to us a remarkable success, and far superior in its capacity for varying the power of tone to anything which has hitherto been made. We recommend, then, most especially these Cabinet Organs, for their excellent qualities; first for the rendering of all sacred music, and also as an indispensible auxiliary of the piano-forte in the drawing-room.

Professor of the Imperial Conservatory of Music, and Organist of the Church of St. Eustache, Paris.
AUGUST DURAND,
Organist of the Church of St. Vincent de Paul, and Composer, Paris.

The Mason & Hamlin Cabinet Organs, long celebrated in our own country, and now regarded in Europe as the best made in the world, are for sale in this city by Mr. C. C. Mellor, 81 Wood street, the sole agent in this city and vicinity.

MONDAY, SEPTEMBER 23, 1867.

UNION REPUBLICAN NOMINATIONS.

FOR JUDGE OF SUPREME COURT:
HENRY WARREN WILLIAMS,
of Allegheny County.

SENATE:
RUSSELL ERRETT, of Robinson Tp.

ASSEMBLY:
GEORGE WILSON, Oakland.
WILLIAM B. FORD, City.
ALEXANDER MILLAR, McKeesport.
AUGUSTUS BECKERT, Reserve Tp.
GEORGE H. RIDDLE, Allegheny.
DAVID L. SMITH, Allegheny.

PROTHONOTARY:
JACOB H. WALTER City.

TREASURER:
Maj. J. F. DENNISTON. Liberty Tp.

COMMISSIONER:
A. PILLOW, Tarentum.

CORONER:
WILLIAM CLAWSON, City.

POOR DIRECTOR:
B. H. DAVIS, Sewickley.

JURY COMMISSIONER:
CHARLES PUGH, Manchester.

ONLY TWO WEEKS remain in which work can be done to augment the splendor of the Republican triumph. Let every Republican stir up his fellow, that they may rejoice together.

THE Democratic victory of one Congressman in California, and the Republican gain of one Representative in Nebraska, will leave the House with 147 Republicans to 46 Democrats.

LET every Union man remember that Friday next, September 27th, will be the last day upon which he can be assessed. The election will take place on Tuesday, October 8th, and the law requires every voter to be assessed ten days before that time.

THE late accounts from Europe go to show that the crops there are below the average. In consequence, prices have gone up in all the continental markets. In the United States the crops are not what were expected. Upon threshing, the average number of bushels to the acre proves to be quite low.

THE allegation is made that Mr. AUGUSTUS BECKERT was placed on the Assembly ticket simply because he is a German or of German extraction. Not a particle of evidence has been, or can be, adduced to sustain this disparagement. He was nominated because the Convention deemed him to be a suitable man for the place.

ALL VOTERS should bear in mind that during the last year, the first of Gov. Geary's term, the State debt has been reduced one million seven hundred and ninety-four thousand six hundred and forty-four dollars and fifty cents! ($1,794,644.50!) Further remember that since the State has been under Republican rule, embracing the period and great cost of the war, the State debt has been reduced nearly or quite ten millions of dollars.

Also remember, that while the State was in the hands of the Copperheads, the State debt was each year steadily increased, until it run up to over forty millions of dollars. These are facts which cannot be controverted.

WHAT danger confronts the Republicans of Pennsylvania in the current canvass, comes from counties in which they have large majorities. There being no President, Governor or members of Congress to elect, the feeling is naturally engendered among Republicans, in such counties, that it is not needful to bring out their full strength. This is true, so far as the local candidates are concerned. But to act upon this idea, so far as relates to the candidate for Supreme Judge, will be fatal. Hence, the earnestness with which we reiterate our entreaties for efficient organization in such counties as Allegheny, Lancaster, Philadelphia and Bradford. The full Republican vote must be got out in these counties or we shall be defeated on the general result. That will never do. Republicans, you are forewarned. Be you, also, forearmed.

AT this time last year the democrats were full in the faith that they would defeat Gen. GEARY and elect Mr. CLYMER. This expectation was based on the calculations of Mr. WALLACE, Chairman of their State Committee, who stated he had caused every ward, borough and township to be closely canvassed and could not be mistaken. The result proved how little his engineering was worth.

This year the democrats profess the same confidence, predicated on assurances from the same source. The prophet in whom they trust is a false one.

It seems probable that the aggregate vote will be lighter than it was last year. Neither party will bring out all its members. The falling off will divide about equally between them.

The tenor of advices from all parts of the State leads us to anticipate the election of Mr. WILLIAMS by a handsome majority. The larger that majority shall be, the more beneficent will the award of the ballot-box prove.

DIXMONT HOSPITAL.

The Grand Jury visited this famous Institution on Saturday. At the request of the Foreman we accompanied the party and shared with them the elegant hospitalities and the characteristic courtesies of Dr. REED, and his assistant, Dr. GAYSON. Since we last visited the Asylum the west wing has been erected, and made so nearly ready for occupation that it is expected to be completed in November. The east wing remains with only the excavations and foundation walls done. Work on this wing must await an appropriation by the Legislature before its progress further. The entire length by a right line of the whole building when completed will be 750 feet, or measuring the angles, the face of the edifice will be 1,000 feet. Of this, the center building, with its two primary wings, in all 365 feet, is all that is finished and occupied. Into this are crowded 260 patients. When the new wing shall be ready, in November, the accommodations will still be wholly inadequate for the curative treatment of so many patients, as there will then be but 198 sleeping rooms. When we reflect that the annual increase of patients is about forty, the imperative necessity of prompt and liberal Legislative aid, sufficient to complete the original design, will be seen and felt. The delegation, from this county particularly, should visit Dixmont before January, and inform themselves, as they may easily do in a single day, of their whole duty as representatives in this behalf.

The Asylum is a model of neatness. Every square inch of floor, stairs, walls and ceilings is as clean as soap and water can make it. A large building is being erected beyond the main edifice, on the west side, to be used as boiler house, laundry, &c. The smaller one, found to be insufficient and misplaced, will be removed. Two immense boilers, each six feet in diameter, with ten flues, are in the basement story of this new building. They will eventually supply the hot air and hot water for the finished Hospital. From thence, also, will be operated the ventilating apparatus, designed to furnish all the rooms in the vast structure with currents of fresh air.

We will not attempt further description of this noble institution, destined to be at the same time a monument to the pious zeal and benevolence of the eminent lady whose name it bears and to the enlightened charity and forecast of the people of Western Pennsylvania, and of the Legislature of the Commonwealth.

OUR BOOK TABLE.

BEYOND THE MISSISSIPPI. By Albert D. Richardson. Hartford: American Publishing Company.

The author is an old and well-known newspaper man, and added to his fame by a volume entitled, "Field, Dungeon and Escape," in which he narrated many of his adventures with the army. After the war, he made a journey across the Continent, and his observations and reflections are embodied in this book. It gives a lively picture of western manners and customs, abounds in anecdotes, characteristic and droll stories, which show perhaps better, and certainly more than many formal essays, what sort of men they are who are laying the foundations of an empire between the Great River and the Pacific coast. It contains more than two hundred illustrations, from photographs and original sketches of the prairies, deserts, mountains, rivers, mines, cities, Indians, trappers, pioneers, and great natural curiosities.

MARTIN CHUZZLEWIT. By Charles Dickens. Illustrated. Boston: Ticknor & Fields. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clarke & Co.

This is the second volume of the new duodecimo edition of Dickens, which has the advantage of large type, which all readers who have reached middle life will appreciate.

BLEAK HOUSE. By Charles Dickens. Boston: Ticknor & Fields. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clarke & Co.

Another addition to the illustrated edition.

THE POETICAL WORKS OF JOHN GREENLEAF WHITTIER. Complete edition. Boston: Ticknor & Fields. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clarke & Co.

For a period quite beyond the memory of most people now living, Mr. Whittier has sung and been admired. Not belonging to poets of the highest class, he has nevertheless made for himself a place in English literature not likely to be effaced. Always pure in sentiment, chaste in expression, and animated by a genuine and overflowing goodness, instinct with the highest aspirations of the age, he has won his garland and will wear it perpetually.

THE DAUGHTER OF AN EMPRESS. An Historical Novel. By L. Mulbach, author of "Marie Antoinette," "Joseph II. and his Court," "Frederick the Great and his Family," etc., etc. Translated from the German by Nathaniel Greene. Complete in one volume, with illustrations. New York: D. Appleton and Company, 443 and 445 Broadway. Pittsburgh: Davis, Clarke & Co., 93 Wood street.

Perhaps no publications of a similar character, these times, have obtained such a wide circulation and popularity as the Mulbach Historical Novels, issuing from the press of the Appletons. The purity of style, faithful delineation of character, and admirable weaving of historical facts, that pervade this series, have tended to give them a hearty welcome by the reading public. This work is worthy of the enviable reputation this author has attained. It glows with interest throughout, and the excellent illustrations only serve to increase the interest of the reader. The beautiful open faced type and white paper also render it attractive in appearance and pleasant to read. Those who have purchased the former works of this author need no words to urge them to get this volume, and those who have not enjoyed the pleasure of reading any of the series will do well to get "The Daughter of an Empress."

UNDER TWO FLAGS. A Novel. By "Ouida," author of "Idalia," "Randolph Gordon," "Strathmore," "Cecil Castlemaine's Gage," etc., etc. Philadelphia: J. B. Lippincott. No. Pp. 582. Pittsburgh: Henry Miner.

The writings of this author are well known, and have been favorably received by those fond of such racy, rollicking reading. This Story, graphically describes scenes in Algeria, and was originally written for a military periodical. It has been heartily commended by military men, and is now issued in its present form for their benefit, and the general public. The volume is full of sketchy incidents of military life, which renders it quite interesting to all classes of readers, and the abandon style of the author is of the most captivating sort. This enterprising publishing house have brought out the book in fine style.

WHY NOT? A book for every woman. IS IT I? A book for every man. A companion to "Why Not?" By Dr. Storer. SERPENTS IN THE DOVES' NEST. Women's Rights. By Rev. John Todd, D.D. Boston: Lee and Shepard. Pittsburgh: Henry Miner.

These publications are very appropriately called "Tracts for the People," on delicate subjects delicately treated. "Why Not?" is the Prize Essay to which the American Medical Association awarded the gold medal, and is issued by order of that body for general circulation. Dr. Storer stands high in the medical profession, and is Vice President of the American Medical Association. The work treats of criminal abortion, which has become so alarmingly common. The subject is discussed in an unexceptionable tone and singularly free from pedantry. The evidence adduced is unanswerable. Tract number 2, "Is it I?" was written by request of many physicians and lady patients. It treats of somethings relating to the causation and prevention of various forms of uterine disease. Among the topics discussed are: Marriage as a Sanitary Measure; the Rights of the Husband; are these rights absolute, or reciprocal, with duties; should mere instinct, or reason be the rule. Rev. Dr. Todd, of Pittsfield, Mass., the celebrated author, furnished the third and fourth of the series. The third "Serpents in the Doves' Nest," is divided into two parts. 1. Fashionable murder; 2. The cloud with a dark lining. The fourth "Woman's Rights," discusses the equality of the sexes; woman's sphere; what her "rights" are; dress, voting, wages, abnormity of the country, and woman education. These works deserve and, doubtless, will have a large circulation.

HARPER'S SELECT NOVELS. New York: Harper & Brothers, Publishers. For sale by Henry Miner, Fifth street, Pittsburgh.

The two last publications of this series "Called to an Account," and "Caste," Nos. 296 and 297, are novels of the higher order, and maintain the excellent character of this extensive series. This class of reading now-a-days finds ready sale, and is quite popular with the masses. These numbers are written in fine style, both as it regards to plot and language, and are not to be compared with the lower grade of "yellow cover" publications.

POLITICAL SPICE.

—"Coming events cast their shadows before" says the Democrats. Wonder if the present shadow isn't a little too dark for them.

—The new military governor of the Carolinas can be and will be about as useful to the great Union cause as was General Sickles.

—Five cent national currency is counterfeited in Charleston, S. C. Just like the rebs; they are always at some small business or other.

—The Detroit Post speaks of McClellan as having been "at one time a candidate for the Presidency in the States of Kentucky, New Jersey, and Delaware."

—The New York 7th Regiment has set a "noble example," so says the Post of that city. New York city, and in fact the whole country will ever remember the services of that body during the war.

—The Canadians are finding that their plan of having several days for an election works badly, as it encourages bribery and all kinds of tampering with voters. They are anxious to adopt the American system of having but a single day's poll.

—The coming election in Massachusetts is to turn on local issues, and on none other.—Boston Post.

It is wise to remember this. For if the Republican candidates are elected by a reduced majority, the Post will claim a "national" victory.—Hartford Press.

—The Harrisburg Patriot and Union "pitches into" the ex-rebel General Longstreet now that he has turned Radical. While he was in command of a traitor army he had the full sympathy and support of the Patriot and Union, but now that he has repented of his fearful error that journal denounces him.

—Mr. Johnson said the other day that he wanted us to live in peace as the dead soldiers are doing at Antietam. The "great Johnson party" has been living in peace like a dead man for some time past, and the great Democratic party, if we do our duty, will soon follow its example.

—In McDowell vs. Gray, 6 Casey, 211 (1857), Woodward, J., in delivering the opinion of the Supreme Court, says: "The learned judge [Hon. Henry W. Williams] expounded the statute correctly, and fortified his conclusions so well, that we can do no better than affirm his judgment for the reasons he rendered for entering it."

RUSSELL ERRETT.

The Brownsville Clipper, one of the very best of our country exchanges, pays a handsome tribute to Mr. RUSSELL ERRETT. There is not only fact, but philosophy, in what it states. Read it:

"We have known Russell Errett intimately for the last twenty years. Our acquaintance with him commenced in Washington, Pa., where he published an able and spirited anti-slavery paper, called "The Patriot." This was at a period when, to be an anti-slavery man, more especially an anti-slavery editor, was to give up all expectation of political office, abandon all hope of money making, and to stem a current of opposition sufficiently strong and overwhelming to have appalled and silenced any moral or political adventurer who was not conscious that his action was based upon the great principles of eternal truth and justice, and had the nerve and determination to "fight it out on that line." Russell Errett was that man, and from the policy he then maintained and advanced, with hardly the semblance of a party organization to support him, without even the prospect of a party of any thing like formidable dimensions, based upon those principles, during the period of an ordinary life time, or more than a single individual out of a thousand in sympathy with him, the whole country over, he has never yet swerved the width of a single hair. But we are not writing Mr. Errett's biography. We only say briefly and generally, that in whatever position he has been placed, whether as editor of a paper, clerk of the Pennsylvania Senate, or Paymaster in the United States army, he has ever maintained his early imbibed principles as a politician, and his unbending integrity as an honest man. As he never received office for the sake of pecuniary gain, at the sacrifice of moral or political principles, so he refused to continue in office, when such continuance was made contingent upon his ceasing to condemn what he conceived to be errors on the part of those who possessed the power to remove him.

"Here is an instance in which is exhibited a signal triumph of firmness and patriotism over interest and office. Having served the Government in the capacity of Paymaster during the entire war, without the least taint upon his honor and honesty, or the slightest complaint from any quarter, of the manner in which he discharged the delicate and responsible duties of his office, he was still retained in that capacity after the war was over until the alternative was presented him, either to espouse Johnsonism or give up his office. He chose the latter, and this new proof of his honesty and disregard of pecuniary interest when it comes in conflict with long cherished and conscientiously entertained principles and opinions, attracted the special attention of his party, who, as proof of their appreciation of the sacrifice he had made for principle, placed him in nomination for the State Senate. Now let him be elected."

—In the triangular race for commercial superiority between Chicago, St. Louis and Cincinnati, it is noticed that Cincinnati is gradually falling behind. Her journals admit this, and assign as the cause the new railroad combinations which are being made in the West. It is stated that the tendency is towards a consolidation of the great east and west railroad lines north of the Potomac and Ohio, into two immense combinations; one line, including the New York Central and the Erie, the Harlem and the Hudson River Railroads, extending on each side of Lake Erie, across Michigan to Chicago, and thence to the great routes West, Northwest and South. The other line, led by the Pennsylvania Central Railroad, extends from central Ohio, through Indiana and Illinois, and competes for the same Western trade. By both these lines Cincinnati is practically avoided, whilst trade is drawn by both through St. Louis and Chicago.

The raising of the steamer Metropolitan, recently sunk in New York harbor was accomplished by the use of compressed air in buoys. The apparatus consists of large bags of rubber cloth encased in a network of ropes. About twenty of these buoys were attached, in an uninflated condition, to the hull of the vessel, which was readily done by a diver encased in a suit of submarine armor. When the buoys are attached a rubber hose connects them with an air pump driven by a donkey-engine on board an attendant vessel; air is thus supplied to the buoys; and, as they are inflated, the air becomes compressed, and the sunken vessel is elevated.

—The cause of the "Black Death," a mysterious disease that recently afflicted the people of Ireland, it is said, has been discovered. A good many cattle have been dying of a form of blood disease, known as carbuncular fever; and in two or three instances the flesh of the cattle has been eaten by other animals. The eruption and the symptoms are said to have been precisely like those observable in the human victims of "Black Death;" and it is therefore supposed that the latter disease may have been engendered by the eating of meat from animals in a state of carbuncular fever.

CHOLERA! CHOLERA!

With the almost certain advent of Cholera, no thoughtful person will be unprepared for it. Secure what experience has demonstrated to be the most certain antidote—that which has cured once will cure again, and never purchase a new and untried article, when an OLD AND RELIABLE ARTICLE can be had. When the cholera visited us on two former occasions, it was found by experience that

FLEMING'S CHOLERA MIXTURE

Was the best, and superseded all others, therefore it stands to reason that if you would have an article that you can depend on, you should purchase it to the exclusion of all others.

WEAR AND TEAR.

When the constitution is weak and the system depressed by the wear and tear of business life, which makes such tremendous drafts upon body and mind, unless some agreeable and strengthening tonic is resorted to, prostration will ensue, and the disease creep unawares upon the victim of negligence. But if

HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS,

Which is a genial and purely vegetable stimulant, be timely administered, the organization will resist and baffle the veins of epidemic and changes of temperature incident to this season of the year which disorder the nerves of the feeble.

There is an active and permanent vitality in this remedy, which will prove of great benefit to the broken down and shattered constitution. It is the only tonic of which the stimulating principle is perfectly pure. Its basis is the essential principle of sound rye, which is admitted by analytical chemists to be the most harmless of stimulants, and this fluid is refined from crudities which belong to it as it comes from the manufacturer. The other ingredients are composed of medicinal plants and herbs, and contain not one harmful element in all their composition.

CURE OF FISTULA.

DR. KEYSER: I write to thank you for your kindness and scientific management of my disease, for which I called to consult you some time in January last. You will remember that I had a complication of diseases which finally ended in a terrible fistula, which I had been advised to "let alone" on account of a harassing cough, which it was feared might fasten on my lungs. I knew that the popular mode of treating diseases like mine was by a cutting operation, which if successful at all, would naturally throw the disease upon the lungs or some other vital organ, on account of the suddenness of the cure and the immediate check to a discharge which I was constrained to believe was a salutary provision of Nature to get rid of some morbid condition in the system. I feel perfectly satisfied that your method of treatment, purifying to the system, and local applications to the fistulous part, must cure, if anything could, without cutting, which I find it did, and I am happy to report myself well in every particular, with sounder and better health than I have had for years. I would also add that the applications you made were almost painless, and have left me a new man, with all the energies and vigor of restored health.

Yours gratefully, C——.

Dr. Keyser's consultation rooms are No. 120 Penn street from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m.

NOTICES.

OFFICE OF THE PACIFIC & ATLANTIC TELEGRAPH COMPANY OF THE UNITED STATES. PITTSBURGH, September 19th, 1867.

CARD. To the Citizens of Pittsburgh.

The Board of Officers of the Pacific and Atlantic Telegraph Company of the United States have great pleasure in announcing the opening of their lines to Cincinnati and Louisville.

In accordance with the equity which they believe should prevail between this corporation and the public, in all charges for the transmission of messages over the wires of this Company, they have ordered reductions of rates, from those heretofore customary, between Cincinnati, Pittsburgh, and intermediate points; and have also directed a reduction to be made in the rate to New York.

The consistency with which this Company have endeavored to serve the public, not only by a prompt transmission of messages, but by endeavoring to reduce the cost of telegraphing, entitles them to once more request from this community a continuation of that patronage which has so far cheered the Board of Officers in their endeavors to establish a permanent Independent Telegraph Line; which, while profitable to the stockholders, from the good will of the public, should be equally remunerative to the public, from a steady cheapening of the cost for the transmission of messages.

A HABEAS CORPUS CASE—A MOTHER SEEKS TO REGAIN CUSTODY OF HER BOY.

A habeas corpus case was heard before Judges Sterrett and Mellon on Saturday. Mrs. Elizabeth Sweigert, residing in the Fifth ward, applied to have her boy, Charles Swigert, indentured to Jacob Grau, carpenter, of Bloomfield, returned to her custody, representing that he had been apprenticed without her knowledge or consent.

Mrs. Sweigert, it seems, was deserted by her husband, and the boy, from want of proper care and attention, had wandered about and became a vagrant. From the best of motives he was taken in charge by Victor Gschwind, a German citizen of the Fifth ward, who became his guardian by Court appointment, in October, 1866, and immediately after indentured him to Mr. Grau. The mother petitioned the Court to have her boy restored, alleging that she was entirely competent to take charge of him, and that the appointment of the guardian was illegally brought about. Mr Reardon appeared for the petitioner. Mr. Kirkpatrick represented the respondent, Mr. Grau, and contended that the proceeding was irregular, that the end desired could not be accomplished in the way proposed. The Court then granted a rule to show cause why the appointment of guardian should not be rescinded, upon the denial by Mrs. Sweigert of the allegation that she was incompetent to take charge of the boy. A partial hearing was had under this rule, the Court spending an hour and a half in the examination of witnesses. It appeared pretty conclusively that Mrs Sweigert was addicted to intemperance and that she had neglected her son. The boy himself made a statement confirmatory of this allegation. Further investigation being desired, Saturday next was fixed as the time for hearing additional testimony.

SENTENCED.

Joseph Redgate, convicted of the larceny of a shovel from the residence of Dr. James Robinson, of Lawrenceville, was sentenced in the Quarter Sessions on Saturday to thirty days imprisonment. Evidence was adduced to show that the prisoner had not been in the habit of stealing, and that at the time of committing the offense for which he was convicted he was in a state of intoxication.

DIVORCES.

In the Court of Common Pleas, Saturday, two petitions for divorce were presented, viz: by Mary Ann Manifold for a divorce from her husband Robert L. Manifold, and Andrew Kimling for a divorce from his wife Martha Kimling.

Police Items.

ASSAULT AND BATTERY.

The following cases of assault and battery were before Alderman Taylor, of the Fifth ward, on Saturday:

Joseph Irwin made information against Patrick Brouder, charging him with committing an assault and battery on his son, a lad twelve or thirteen years of age, by striking him with a stick. Patrick was arrested and held for Court.

Patrick Brouder made oath against Joseph Irwin, alleging that he struck him with a broom and with his fist. Irwin was held to answer at Court. The parties to the above cases reside in the Fifth ward.

Alderman McMasters furnished the following:

Margaret Savage made oath against her step son, Joseph Savage, charging him with assault and battery. She alleges that he struck her on the head with a base ball bat. The parties reside in Pitt township. A warrant was issued.

The following are from Alderman Lynch: Catherine Kennedy made information against Mrs. Hamisher, charging her with assault and battery. She alleges that the defendant threw a frying pan at her head, which struck her in the hand, cutting a severe gash in it. A warrant was issued for the arrest of the accused.

James Goggins charged John Sloan with assault and battery. The defendant resides in South Pittsburgh, and the prosecutor on Shingiss street, Eighth ward. Sloan was arrested and held for a hearing.

SURETY OF THE PEACE.

James Goggins made information against Joan Sloan for surety of the peace, alleging that he threatened to kill him.

RELEASED ON BAIL.

Mark Graham, committed to jail to await the result of the injuries of Michael Kerland, who alleges that Graham stabbed him at Frankstown on the 8th instant, was released on one thousand dollars for his appearance at Court.

HORSE STEALING.

Justice Barker, of South Pittsburgh, had the following:

William alias "Anti Renter" McElroy was arrested on a charge of horse stealing, on oath of John Allen, who alleges that he stole a bay mare from Allentown, Allegheny county, September 8th. McElroy was committed for Court.

Fatal Accident.

Mr. Samuel Reed, an employee at the Pennsylvania Car Works, at Latrobe, was instantly killed on Saturday morning, by being caught between two cars. About seven o'clock in the morning he was standing between two cars, engaged in painting the bumpers of one of them, when some workmen engaged in the car-yard, not knowing of his position, pushed the other car violently up, catching him between the bumpers, and crushing his chest so terribly that he died almost instantly. The deceased was about twenty-eight years of age. He had been married about two years, and leaves a wife and one child.

Fire.—A slight fire occurred in Allegheny on Saturday morning about one o'clock, which, but for the timely arrival of the fire department, might have proved a very disastrous one. The roof of the oil mill of Hamilton & Ross, near Water street, caught fire, it is supposed, from the "stack" or an upright shaft, the top of which is over the roof. The building contained about fifty thousand bushels of flaxseed and a large quantity of oil, but the promptness and energy of the firemen prevented the fire from reaching this inflammable material, as it was extinguished before it had made any great progress.

Personal.—We clip the following from the New Castle, England, Chronicle. On Thursday evening Mr. Robert Liddell, of Pennsylvania, U. S., and who is at present on a visit to Houghton le-Spring, his native place, entertained a number of his old friends to supper, previous to his departure for America. The event took place at the house of Mrs. Liddell, Sunderland Lane, the chair being occupied by Mr. Beckwith, and the vice-chair by Mr. Turnbull. The evening was spent in an agreeable manner.

The East Birmingham School House will shortly be completed, the work having been pushed forward quite rapidly during the summer. It is designed to have a formal opening of the building next month, on which occasion Prof. Wickersham, State School Superintendent, is expected to be present.

We are indebted to W. A. Gildenfenny, No. 45 Fifth street, for a copy of Harper's Magazine for October.

Also, to J. W. Pittock, Fifth street, for copies of Harper's Magazine and Godey's Lady Book for October.

At Dixmont.—The grand jury on Saturday paid a visit of inspection to the Insane Asylum at Dixmont. They will probably close their labors during the present week.

Cheap Groceries.—For cheap Groceries and something good, go to Arthur Kirk's Grocery Store, Nos. 172 and 174 Federal street, Allegheny city. MW:*

Youngstown, Ohio, June 17th, 1867.

Messrs. Burke & Barnes, Pittsburgh, Pa.

GENTLEMEN—We ship you, to-day, by railroad, a safe of your make, for a few repairs. The safe went through the disastrous fire that occurred here on the 6th of March last, burning our store and warehouse, and we are glad to inform you that the papers taken out of the safe after the fire were not warmed in the least. We did not suppose any safe, especially so small a size, could possibly stand such a fire, and when we discovered the papers all safe and sound, we were agreeably disappointed. We will give you an order for a large size safe when we get into our new store. Truly yours,
W. & A. J. PACKARD.

CITY AND SUBURBAN.

Imposing Demonstration—Reception of Rt. Rev. M. Domenec, Catholic Bishop of Pittsburgh, on His Return from Rome—Grand Procession—Interesting Services at the Cathedral.

Several months ago we announced the departure from this city, for Rome, of Right Rev. M. Domenec, the Catholic Bishop of this Diocese. He went thither to participate in the important ceremonials of the church, attending its eighteenth hundredth anniversary, and to bear to the Pope the offerings of the faithful of this neighborhood in the way of an address of love and sympathy, and a substantial voluntary cash contribution in token of the earnestness of their desires for his welfare. Last week Bishop Domenec arrived, on his way home, in New York, and the Catholics of our two cities and boroughs, arranged to grant him such a spontaneous reception and welcome as would not only prove highly pleasing and gratifying to him, but would likewise do credit to their religious zeal, reverence and devotion. The various Christian and benevolent associations attached to the Catholic churches were invited to participate in a procession to escort the Bishop to his Episcopal residence, and all the preliminary arrangements for a grand and imposing reception were completed on Saturday night, and yesterday were carried into effect, resulting in one of the most imposing religious demonstrations ever witnessed in this city.

THE PROCESSION.

The day was bright and beautiful and admirably adapted for the display of rich silken banners and flags, and was such as to entice thousands of persons on the streets to witness the procession, if not to participate therein. From early morning there was a noticeable stir in the Catholic element. Congregations were dismissed early, Sunday schools discharged, and societies were marshaling and forming in all quarters. Towards one o'clock, the hour appointed for the procession to move, the streets were alive with people, and with bands playing, societies marching, marshal's bedecked with gay ribbons and mounted on spirited horses, dashing along the highways, presented anything but a Sunday like appearance.

The delegations from Allegheny and Birmingham met the Pittsburgh delegation at the Cathedral, where the procession was formed as follows:

MARSHALS.

Lucas Dressel, Dr. Geo. H. Keyser, Michael Gentis and Geo. Kunkle.
Great Western Band.
Brotherhood of St. Joseph, Sharpsburg.
St. Augustine Society, Lawrenceville.
St. Philomena, Pittsburgh.
St. Alphonse, Pittsburgh.
St. Stephanus, Pittsburgh.
St. Peters, Pittsburgh.
St. Bridget, of St. Paul's Cathedral.
Children of Marie Society.
St. Aloysius of St. Philomena Congregation.
Smith and Teerge's Band.
St. John's Society, Allegheny,
St. Joseph's " "
St. Peter's " "
Washington Cornet Band.
Brotherhood of St. John, Birmingham.
St. Michael's Society, "
Silver Cornet Band of Birmingham.
St. Roche's Society, Birmingham.
St. Boniface's Society, Birmingham.
St. Vincent de Paul, St. Paul's Conference.

After forming, the procession moved in the order named, along Grant street to Liberty, up Liberty to Carson, down Carson to Penn, and along Penn to Lawrenceville, where it was halted to await the arrival of the Bishop. A Committee of Reception having been appointed by the different societies, proceeded in carriages to East Liberty to meet the Bishop, who arrived there at one o'clock from the East. He was then placed in an open carriage drawn by four gray horses and escorted by the Committee to Lawrenceville, where the procession was in waiting to escort him to St. Paul's Cathedral, where the ceremonies took place. Upon his arrival at Lawrenceville, the procession was reformed in the original order, and followed by the Committee of Reception and the Bishop in carriages moved down Penn street to Canal, up Canal to Liberty, down Liberty to Grant, and up Grant to the Cathedral.

From Lawrenceville to the Cathedral, via Penn and Grant streets, the procession slowly wound its tedious length, and while it was moving these streets were absolutely choked with people. As the carriage containing the Bishop, who was robed in the purple of prelacy, passed the St. Philomena Church, its chime of bells rang out a merry welcome, contributing largely to the enthusiasm of the occasion. When the cortege arrived at the Cathedral it halted, and, forming in open order, the carriage containing the Bishop drove slowly through the ranks, and with uncovered heads the faithful saluted him. The scene at the Cathedral was exciting. Its gateways were pressed by thousands endeavoring to obtain admission in order to participate in the exercises, while Grant street, from Fifth to Liberty, was densely packed with one solid mass of human beings, of all ages and sexes, rendering passage either way almost impossible.

Arriving at the church the Rt Rev. Bishop, was received by the Rector of the Cathedral, Very Rev. J. Hickey in the manner prescribed by the Roman Pontificate. He was preceded by the Great Western Band, as he advanced up the aisle, the music of which aded greatly to the solemnity of the occasiond. He remained a short time in front of the grand altar, and then proceeded to the throne, where, vested with the cappa magna, he awaited the delivery of the address on the part of the clergy and laity. The English address was delivered by Very Rev. Father Mullen, of St. Peter's Church, Allegheny, and the German by Rev. Father Petz, Rector of St. Philomena's Church. At the close of the address he left the sanctuary, preceded by the servers, and accompanied by the Rector of the Cathedral, proceeded to the pulpit and delivered an appropriate reply.

The Bishop responded to the points in the welcome somewhat in detail, dwelling particularly upon the latter portion, which gave expression to the heartfelt joy of the people on his return to the city. He said he was glad to have returned to the scenes where he had tried to labor long and faithfully for the sanctification of the souls of the people. He was glad to return to that chair in the sanctuary to which he had been appointed by the successor of Peter the Prince of the Apostles. He was glad once again to stand at that Altar, and as the Great High Priest of God to offer the holy sacrifice for the living and the dead. He was glad to appear again in this pulpit, where he had so often endeavored to preach the Word of Life and of Truth; and to defend the interests and inculcate the principles of Christian Morality. He had to take his place again in yonder confession, because by dispensing mercy and forgiveness to others he himself hoped to be forgiven by God our Father. In a word, he had returned to renew those relations which had been so kindly kept up between the people of his Diocese as Catholics and himself. He hoped they might long continue such and that all of them by discharging their respective duties might meet finally in the House of our Father in Heaven. He thanked them for the frank and cordial reception, and in return would impart to them the Episcopal blessing in the name of the Father, the Son, and Holy Ghost.

At the close of the Bishop's remarks solemn Pontifical Vespers commenced. During the vespertine services the Rt. Rev. Bishop was assisted at the throne by the Very Rev. T. Mullen, as assistant Priest; the Very Rev. T. Stiebel and Rev. E. F. Garland as Dean, and by the Rev. Fathers Holland and Devlin as Deacon and Sub-Deacon. Rev. J. Hicky was master of ceremonies, assisted by the Rev. W. Burke. The services were concluded by the singing of "Der Groner Gott," or the "Te Deum," by the choir, in which the entire congregation joined.

TARENTUM.

Mass Meeting of Republican Voters—Speeches of Messrs. Moreland, Kerr, Denniston and Ford—The Latter Places Himself Right on the Railroad Question.

Pursuant to announcement there assembled on Saturday evening last at the ample grounds surrounding the Western Pennsylvania Railroad Depot, in the thriving borough of Tarentum, one of the largest mass meetings of Republican voters held in any part of the county during the present important political campaign. The meeting was properly advertised, and notwithstanding the fact that a grand rally of loyal citizens had been held the evening previous at Natrona, which is in the immediate neighborhood of Tarentum, the yeomanry embraced the opportunity of hearing again the great principles of the Republican party expounded by able, eloquent and honest exponents, and flocked from all directions to the appointed place of gathering. Towards eight o'clock the meeting had assumed large proportions, and was being constantly increased by voters from the most remote districts. Organization was effected by the nomination and election of the following gentlemen as officers:

President—G. M. Morrison, Esq.

Vice Presidents—Messrs. James Dickey, Anthony Marvin, W. V. Evans, Capt. Kipp, John A. Miller, John Boyd, Capt. Boggs, Capt. Humes.

Secretaries—Messrs. J. D. Kearns and J. C. Dunn.

The first speaker introduced to the audience was our worthy and talented fellow-citizen, W. C. Moreland, Esq., who proceeded to address his hearers at some length on the vital issues involved in the present campaign. He paid a high and fitting compliment to the candidate presented by Western Pennsylvania for the Supreme bench, and urged that his election would cheer the national heart and rebuke the bold bad man at Washington, President Johnson. The latter magnified every election victory, no matter how trifling it may be, as an endorsement of his course in setting aside the principles of the Government, in order to establish his own mean idea of power, and would rapidly succeed in carrying out the measures he has already mapped out. If he believes that Pennsylvania is with him in sentiment, there is no telling how far he will go; but the speaker implored his audience to exercise all their influence and power at the ballot box to prevent the calamity of a Democratic success.

The speaker made an eloquent and argumentative address, and we regret that our space will not permit fuller extracts from it. His remarks were listened to with close attention, and from the enthusiasm developed in the meeting as he progressed, we feel that he succeeded in touching the proper chord, and left his hearers with their minds awakened to the importance of doing their full duty at the forthcoming election.

John H. Kerr, Esq., was the next speaker introduced. His name is familiar to our Republican readers, having worked zealously in the last campaign for the election of Governor Geary, and being one of the most gifted young members of the Allegheny county bar. Previous to entering upon his line of argument he proposed three cheers for Congress, Sheridan and Williams, which were given with a will and gusto that indicated enthusiasm in the good cause is by no means dead in Tarentum. The speaker made a clear and forcible speech, in which he dissected the late address of the Democratic State Central Committee, and searchingly reviewed the policy of the President, contrasting it with the course of Congress.

Mr. W. B. Ford, candidate on the Republican ticket for Assembly, being observed in the audience, was called upon by the President, G. M. Morrison, Esq, to define his position on the question of Free Railroads. He took the stand and proclaimed himself unequivocally in favor of a free and general railroad law. His remarks were plain and pointed, and exhibited a degree of frankness decidedly commendable. The gentleman on concluding his answer to the interrogatory, dwelt at some length on State and National politics, and frequently warmed his audience into much enthusiasm.

Major J. F. Denniston, candidate for County Treasurer on the Republican ticket, was next called on, and made a short and pertinent address, after which the meeting adjourned with three times three cheers for Sheridan, Stanton, Congress, Williams and the county ticket.

An excellent martial band was present during the evening and at intervals discoursed spirited and enlivening music. The following gentlemen who are masters in the profession compose the band: Messrs. B. F. Nole, W. H. H. Bell, Charles Black, Joseph Halsted, Joshua Bernard, George Stewart. Tarentum can be relied upon to do its full share of duty in swelling the handsome majority promised Judge H. W. Williams in Allegheny county.

The Boat Race.

The four-oared boat race between the Duquesne and Howard boat clubs, which has been "on" for several weeks, came off Saturday afternoon over the Allegheny course, in the presence of a vast multitude of people, who thronged the river banks and bridges. The race was for a purse of $500, and the distance three miles, starting at the Suspension Bridge, and from there up the river one mile and a half and return. Shortly after five o'clock, the hour appointed for the race, the "O. H. P. Williams," manned by John Fisher (stroke), T. M. Schofield, Aug. Hollander and Will Worthington, of the Howard Club, made their appearance, the men dressed in pink shirts and tights. M. H. Banna (stroke), William Long, Aug. Miller and John Hays, dressed in white, represented the Duquesne Club, and in a few minutes after the arrival of the Howard boys, pulled up to the score in the "Argenetta." At the signal given by the referee, the eight oars touched the water simultaneously, and both boats started for the upper stake boat at a clipping pace. The "O. H. P. Williams," of the Duquesne Club, gained the lead slightly, and maintained it for a considerable distance, when, with a vigorous spurt, the Howard crew made rapid headway on their competitors, and the boats were almost even at the iron bridge. But a slacking of speed was here noticeable on the part of the Howard, while the Duquesne kept up a steady stroke to the stake boat, after turning which they had virtually won the race. It appears, in turning, the outrigger of the Howard's boat caught on the buoy, and some time was consumed in getting it loose. In the meantime the half dozen lengths that separated the boats had increased to a dozen, and the Duquesne came home an easy winner of the race and the $500. The time of the winning boat was 21:01.

FINANCE AND TRADE.

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, September 21, 1867.

Gold opened weak at 142¾, but gradually advanced to 143. Importers, merchants and speculators are all anxious to cover their short gold as soon as the lowest point is reached, and judging from the eagerness of small operators, it seems as though the bottom had been reached yesterday. The larger operators keep aloof yet; they have a sure margin no matter whether they buy one or two points lower or not. The scarcity of money and the advanced rates on call loans has had a depressing influente on the price of government securities, and it seems the lowest point has not been reached, since speculators find it more renumerative to speculate in stocks for the present; and holders in the interior are willing to sell when they can reap a good profit by pocketing a large premium, and reinvest their money at higher rates.

Stocks are improving, and if the Government is a liberal disburser for a few days a sharp reaction is likely to take plase; the market is in a critical condition, and it would not be safe for any one to step in at present; contraction of currency and debt is what the government is aiming at at present, and any scheme based on currency expansion is likely to be frustrated in stocks as well as in gold.

The local money market is becoming tighter every day, not so much for parties in good standing and property holders unincumbered, but by the mass of small owners of county seats, suburban residences, and a numerous class of small store-keepers, who based their calculations in their business arrangements on war times and expansion. They relied chiefly on their daily receipts, which, on an average, do not exceed a good salary, and when compelled to live off their accumulations, will find that they will have to fall back on their capital.

—At the close of business on Wednesday the books of the Treasury at Washington showed that there were about $3,700,000 of Seven Thirty notes that came due August 15th, not converted into long bonds. As the Treasurer permits those mailed by the 15th to be converted, the $700,000 will probably arrive in time, but the other $3,000,000 will be paid in currency, causing a loss the owners of about 8 per cent. The gold coin in the United States Treasury on Wednesday amounted to $105,835,507.

The New York Times says: The failure yesterday in Liverpool of the American firm of Messrs. Jas. Hewitt & Co (chiefly in cotton,) occasions surprise and regret to their friends on this side. It comes down, of course, upon the branch houses in this city and New Orleans; but, we learn, that no large amount of bills is, at present, running against either. Of the extent of the involvements on the other side we are not yet apprised. The senior of the firm, an extensive Louisiana planter before the war, is now at New Orleans.

—The suspension is reported by Messrs. Veronin Bros., of Moscow, in consequence chiefly of large speculations in cotton. Their liabilities are very heavy, and some London firms are among the creditors. St. Petersburg letters say it is feared their liabilities will reach £200,000 to £50,000. They have four cotton mills. The assets are scarcely expected to be favorable. The principal bankers and merchants at St. Petersburg have suffered.

—The London Times says the Bank of England's account exhibits a feature without precedent, except on one occasion, fifteen years ago. The amount of bullion held exceeds the amount of the note circulation in the hands of the public. On the 28th of June, 1852, when Consols were about 101, ex-div., a similar circumstance took place. The excess of bullion over circulation was then £700,128, and on the present occasion is £9,342; but before the end of the month, from the absorption of notes that takes place at the bank on account of revenue payments, a much larger difference is likely to be witnessed. At present the bullion held by the bank is nearly £2,000,000 above the extraordinary total temporarily reached in 1852, and there is every symptom of a further rapid augmentation.

—Speculation in Wall street has received a sharp check through the advance in the rate of interest from 5 to 7 per cent. Great pains are being taken by some writers to assure operators that, legal rates being established, capital is sure to be forthcoming, and that dealing for advance is the sure road to fortune. Now the facts are that the recent advance in speculative shares has been the result of cheap money and abundant crop prospects, used with great boldness and success by daring gamblers to inflate prices, but not to tempt new operators into the field, upon whom they could unload and realize their profits. In this they were defeated by actual statements, as regards the crops, and the unusually early drain for currency to move the crops. These facts, in connection with the payment of the compound notes and the cancellation of plain legal-tenders, gave an activity to money which has defeated their calculations, and established losses where large gains were looked for. The demands for currency to move the grain, hay and cotton crops for the next ninety days must be supplied from the Atlantic cities, where alone money has been in any degree cheap, and higher rates will be paid. Parties wanting capital to move the crops, are ready to pay extraordinary interest, in the way of commissions, an example which must be followed by borrowers upon stocks. It is, therefore, reasonable to assume that full prices will be paid for money for some time, and that stocks, which for many months have had the sole use of cheap money, may suffer in market price, now that the commercial operators of the country make their demands upon financial institutions.

PITTSBURGH PETROLEUM MARKET

OFFICE OF THE PITTSBURGH GAZETTE,
SATURDAY, September 21, 1866.

CRUDE—The market has been irregular and unsettled throughout the past week, and today was no exception. There was but a single sale reported, 350 bbls (35 to 36 gravity) to be delivered on first water, at 12c, and it was also reported that there had been another sale effected for the same delivery at the same price. Spot oil is still quoted at 13c—but little offering, and the demand is light; for all 1867, we continue to quote at 12@12½c, seller's option, and 13@13½c, buyer's option—it was thought that sales could have been made at the inside quotations. For March and April, 1868, there has been no sales for several days, but it is probable that buyers could still be found at 13¼, their option. No advices from Oil City to-day—market was dull there on Friday, and $4.30@4.40 were the nominal prices.

REFINED—The market for bonded oil was even quieter than on Friday, not a single transaction of any character reported. Indeed, the market was apparently more depressed to-day than during any preceding day this week, although, so far as we could learn, there was no good and substantial reason therefor. According to our latest advices—on Friday—Antwerp was a fraction higher, being quoted at the even 55 francs; but there seems to be a screw loose somewhere, which is evident from the fact that there was not a single sale. September, it is supposed, could have been sold at 33; October at 34c, and the last three months at 34@34¼ but there did not seem to be much disposition manifested on the part of either buyers or sellers to do anything, and all seemed inclined to hold off and see what will turn up next week. Both "bulls" and "bears" appear confident, but one or the other is doomed to disappointment.

ARRIVALS—The arrivals of oil by rail and river during the week ending to-day, were as follows:

Brewer & Burke	317	Jas. Wilkins	537
Buffum & Kehew	250	Fisher & Bro	152
J. P. Glass	405	W. McCutcheon	210

RIVER NEWS.

Capt. Geo. W. Johnston, of the Glasgow, has returned from the west in good health and spirits, and in first rate condition for the fall and winter campaign. His boat has been thoroughly overhauled, repaired and repainted at Wheeling, where she has been lying up all summer, and will be among the first to load for Saint Louis upon the resumption of navigation.

Capt. Sam. French, an old and well-known steamboatman, is engaged in the salt business. He has a fine salt well at the mouth of Racoon Creek, and, his numerous friends will be glad to learn, is doing a flourishing business. The Joseph Pearce, we believe, was the last boat Capt. French had command of.

The Selma, Capt. Rogers' new side-wheeler for the New Orleans and Alabama river trade, is completed and ready to take her departure as soon as the river will permit. Capt. Moore is progressing finely with his new packet for the Pittsburgh and Parkersburg trade.

In the case of DeLong vs. The Cincinnati and Covington Ferry Company, in which the latter were sued for damages for personal injuries received by the former, while crossing on one of the ferry boats last fall, a verdict was rendered against the Company, in the Circuit Court of Kenton County, for four thousand dollars.

The Memphis Avalanche, of Tuesday, announces the arrival of the Commercial from White river with a bale of new cotton, and has the following:

"The Olive Branch was aground above Lake Providence and had to be helped off by the H. M. Shreve. The latter steamer passed up on Saturday night. She had on board a lot of military prisoners from Vicksburg, who were on their way to Little Rock. They were guarded by a squad of soldiers. The captain of the guard died suddenly before reaching this port and was buried below here. His effects were turned over to the Quartmaster of this place."

The New Orleans Crescent, of Sunday, says: With unfeigned pleasure we convey to gratifying intelligence to the numerous friends of Capt. Jesse K. Bell, that after a severe tussle with Yellow Jack, he made his appearance at his store yesterday, fully recovered and well qualified to attend to his usual routine of business. His wife has also recovered from her serious attack.

Capt. H. Strans, of New Albany, a well-known boatman, died in Memphis on Tuesday.

The St. Louis Democrat says: The Atlantic and Mississippi Steamship Company have owned several barges for some time, and are going more extensively into that kind of stock. The company have an agent at Cincinnati, who on the 16th, bought three barges from the Cincinnati and Memphis Packet Company for $15,000. They are new, fine and commodious, and have cargo boxes. Yesterday two were bought each costing $9000, and each with a capacity of one thousand tons. They were of the Parker tow line between Cincinnati and New Orleans, and are new. They are furnished each with a boiler and hoister. This item furnishes more evidence of progress and enterprise.

The R. C. Gray left here night before last for Memphis with a fine trip of freight and people. She went through the canal—got more freight and people of the Empire, which boat laid up—backing out she rubbed on the Portland bar—getting off she went to New Albany, and in landing at the wharfboat she got aground again—finally she "wiggled" off and backed down the river, only to run hard aground at Falling Run, where she was sticking hard and fast yesterday at noon.

The corps of engineers, under Gen. Weitzel, commenced on Monday to take the soundings of the river between Jeffersonville and New Albany, for the canal around the falls. They are carefully examing all the islands, chutes, on the falls. The work is supervised by Mr. Eichbaum, chief engineer to Gen. Weitzel. When the job is completedy they will be ready to make their report.

The Louisville Democrat gets of the following: The river is almost dry. O! such times! When we look at the poor little green basin of water in front of our city, we think the game of navigation is about played; and there is no telling how long it may last. Think of only 26 inches water in the canal, and steamboatmen starving to death. It's awful! Business was about run down at the heel yesterday. It was dull. The weather was hot enough to roast an owl, though the half clouded skies indicated a shower soon.

A late New Orleans exchange says: Owing to the epidemic which prevails in the city, and the quarantine regulations now in force at Natchez and Vicksburg, our friend Tom Leathers deemed it prudent to delay the departure of the splendid Magenta for a week, in hopes that in the meantime the fever will have spent its force, and business will justify the bringing out of the packet. However, the fine steamer National will continue in the trade. The members of the Steamboatmen's Union Benevolent Association of this city are working harmoniously together, and arrangements are now perfected which will hereafter be conductive to the benefit of the Red river trade. In future the boats will leave in turn. Steamboatmen have heretofore not worked together as they should have done; but seeing the folly of running against each other's interests, and by that means defeating the object which they had in view, they will, by their judicious arrangement, enter the fall and winter trade with prospects, which, if kept, will rebound to the of all concerned.

STEAMER SILVER CLOUD NO. 2 AT CAIRO, September 16.—At last, after a great deal of very hard work, we have succeeded in getting out of this place. I found only three feet in the Lower Ohio, and in a very bad condition, as the Lower Mississippi is falling so fast that it drains the Ohio. We leave to-night; all well. CHAS. MATHEWS.

LOUISVILLE, September 19.—No perceptible change in the river. The channel is changing and cutting over the Portland bars. Twenty-eight inches are reported here, and the channel crooked. The Ella Faber arrived this morning, and reports three and a half feet at Flint Island, twenty-seven inches at French Island, and three and a half feet at Scuffletown. The R. C. Gray, which left Louisville for Cairo, at 10 p. m., is still aground on New Albany bar, nearly opposite the first bend below the city.

We take the following items from the Cincinnati Commercial of Friday:

Yesterday the city landing was bare of boats from Broadway down to Main, except the little Success, laid up at the foot of Sycamore. Notwithstanding the low water, the rates of freights on all the local packets are the same as during the high water. As a consequence, hardly any of the packets are any more than paying expenses, while we know of several that have lost money. A convention of all the steamboat owners and Captains on the Western and Southern waters, will be held in this city on the 16th of October. An agent informs us that there is an unusually large quantity of furniture in the city, awaiting shipment for New Orleans. We hear the A. & M. S. S. Co's barges take one item of three hundred bedsteads for New Orleans. We hear that parties are negotiating for the charter of a side wheel steamer to run in place of the America, in the Manchester trade during high water. The Cumberland is lower than it has been for years, with only twelve inches on Harpeth shoals on Wednesday.

NEW ADVERTISEMENTS.

THE BANKERS' AND MERCHANTS'

GRAND

Presentation Enterprise.

THE COMMITTEE APPOINTED

WILL POSITIVELY DISTRIBUTE THE PRIZES

AT THE

THIRD GRAND CONCERT

THAT WILL TAKE PLACE AT

IRVING HALL, NEW YORK.

Tuesday, Sep. 24, 1867.

BANKERS' AND MERCHANTS' SECOND GRAND CONCERT was given at IRVING HALL, August 24th. It was a grand success. The large hall was filled with the most respectable citizens of New York. The committee that was appointed at the first Concert, announced to the audience that they would distribute the prizes at the next Concert, which will take place at IRVING HALL, on the 24th of September, 1867.

When the Committee made this announcement, the audience gave immense applause. They were pleased to know that the prizes would be distributed at the next Concert on the 24th.

This Grand Distribution of Prizes will be Conducted on the Mutual Benefit Principle.

A PRO RATA DISTRIBUTION OF PROFITS TO TICKET-HOLDERS!

Capital, - - $1,287,148.

TICKETS, ONE DOLLAR EACH,

And limited to One Million Two Hundred and Eighty-seven Thousand One Hundred & Forty-eight.

The Fairest and Most Impartial Plan of Presentation yet Offered to the Public.

A PRIZE WITH EVERY TICKET.

PROSPECTUS.

A number of the leading Bankers and Merchants of New York, in consideration of the great success which has attended many of the Charitable Presentation Entertainments of the day, have formed themselves into a company, with the view of inaugurating an enterprise which, while it shall return them a fair profit, shall offer greater advantages to ticket purchasers than any yet presented; and which, being conducted upon a perfectly legitimate and business basis, shall be free from those objectionable features which have characterized many of these enterprises.

To this end they have consigned the sale of tickets and the registering of the same to Clark, Webster & Co., Bankers and Managers, No. 62 Broadway, New York, who will keep the records in their custody until the day of the Grand Presentation Entertainment, when they will be handed over to a Committee selected by the audience to make an impartial distribution of Presents.

A reference to the number of presents and the general plan of distribution, given below, will convince even the most sceptical of the great advantages which will accrue to all who participate in the enterprise; and the Commercial and Financial standing of the Company, and the Managers and Bankers thereof, will, they hope, prove a sufficient guaranty of the fairness and impartiality with which everything in connection with it will be conducted, and that the interests of ticket holders will be most strictly watched over and guarded. In fact, it is the desire of the Managers to conduct every transaction for the mutual benefit of whoever shall purchase a ticket, and scrupulously to avoid any and everything which could in the slightest degree diminish the profits which are likely to accrue to all who invest.
